

During the winter, the bob sled became the most important vehicle.

An excellent picture of DeMott's Sawmill on Pierce Road in the early 1900's. Note the "big wheels" in the background, on the right, and the pile of bark by the railroad tracks in the foreground.

The bark was processed to obtain tannin, used for curing hides in the leather industry.

