Anderson of Little River and brought property just north of the village. Louis served in the Civil War as a general's personal servant and often told the villagers of his war experiences. Their children, Noah, Belle and Elizabeth, were all born in Mecosta. Belle and her husband, Rev. Ralph Allen, now live in Moline, Illinois.

Lawrence Gross was a grandson of the Abraham Grosses; the son of Benjamin Gross and Diantha Cummins. Although he had suffered a hip fracture as a child, which had not been properly set,

Lawrence grew up in the community serving as best he could. The horse and buggy was a common morning sight after the "morning train" mail delivery. His family lived just east of the Mecosta cemetery and his ability to warble or imitate birds amused many people. His favorite songs were "Red Wing" and "Listen to the Mocking Bird". School children often encouraged Lawrence to "try to get on radio" in Major Bowes program, because he also picked the guitar as well as he sang and whistled.
